

THIRD SUMMER

Copyright June 1990 Jim Robertson
Tempo: 105 Key: D

VERSE 1:

Em7                  E7sus2          Em7          E7sus2                          Bm7                  Bm7 (add9) Bm7
(do two times with music only before lyrics begin):
My theory of immortality                          goes something like this:
you only come around once                          but through memory persists.
G    G    G (add9) Bm7          Bm7 (add9) Bm7
Sometimes once lasts forever and the things you may have done you may have done.
So many paths;    look at the ones you've chosen.

VERSE 2:

Standing on this roof I wish I smoked.
But I don't so I lose myself in the motion picture show.
My favorite shop has wheels.
And I lose the sequence.

CHORUS 1:

   A                          A                                  G                                  G
But from sixteen to                  one hundred and fourteen from four thousand and seventeen to two thousand, three hundred, and fifty-eight counting the numbers, it's the third
Bm7          Bm7          Bm7          Bm7 summer.

VERSE 3:

Some people think we're strapped to a train rushing through the tunnels.
I rather think we're treading in a warm stream in the shallows.
Physics: like a particle in a wave we bob up and down.
While waves wash over us and recede into background.

CHORUS 2:

(same lyrics as VERSE 1, except end with) . . . if it's love by numbers, it's the third summer.

BRIDGE:

(four times): Bm7          Bm7          Bm7          Bm7 E
(two times): B          B          B          B          Dsus4maj6          Dsus4maj6          Dsus4maj6          Dsus4maj6
(two times): G                                  G                                  G (add9) G Bm7          Bm7 (add9) Bm7

VERSE 4 (do two times the Em7 and Bm7 sequence before lyrics begin):

Clocks don't measure time, they really measure height.
And what you're doing now you'll be doing for the rest of your life.
And looking back the green mountains turn blue.
And here I am: perspective, relativity, physics, the Gulf Stream, and you.

CHORUS 3:

(same lyrics as VERSE 1, except end with) . . . lines connecting numbers, it's the third summer.

CHORUS 4 (lyrics same as VERSE 1)

ENDING (repeat seven times, falling apart on the seventh):

Em7                  E7sus2          Em7          E7sus2                          Bm7                  Bm7 (add9) Bm7

CHORDS USED IN THIS SONG:

Note: put a capo on the 7th fret. All chords below are written for a capo on the 7th fret.

Em7	E7sus2	Bm7	Bm7 (add9)	G	G (add9)	A	E	B	Dsus4maj6
=====	=====	=====	=====	=====	=====	=====	=====	=====	=====
1111	11111	11111	11111	11111	11111	11111	11111	1111	11111
1211	12111	21111	21111	12111	12111	11112	11231	23111	11111
11111	11111	11111	11111	31111	31114	11113	11111	11111	231111
(Looks like you're playing:)
Am7	A7sus2	Em7	Em7 (add9)	C	C (add9)	D	A	E	Gsus4maj6